

PART TIME EDUCATIONAL SPECIALISTS 2021-2022 SCHOOL YEAR

ILD, Institute for Learning and Development, a professional, a clinical and educational organization, is currently looking for part-time learning specialists with expertise in teaching executive function strategies. Strong executive function and experience with students who have learning and attention difficulties is required. ILD provides neuropsychological assessments, one-to-one strategy instruction, and executive function coaching, as well as specialized reading, writing, and math instruction. We work with some students remotely, so strong computer skills are a requirement.

Minimum qualifications include:

- * Master's degree in special education or related field
- * Experience teaching strategies to students with LD/ADHD/EF difficulties
- *Capacity to work virtually with a minimum of 5 students during the school week, at least two afternoons-early evenings or on weekends.

Please note: Caseload will build gradually over time

Benefits include mentoring/supervision, professional development, educational resources, attendance at ResearchILD's conferences and workshops, as well as access to our SMARTS Executive Function Curriculum and Training.

Please send cover letter as well as resume to Joan Steinberg, M.Ed. by email (jsteinberg@ildlex.org).

Director of Educational Therapy: Joan Steinberg, M.Ed.
Director, Institutes for Learning and Development: Dr. Lynn Meltzer
Assistant Director, Institutes for Learning and Development: Donna Kincaid, M.Ed.
ILD and ResearchILD, 4 Militia Drive, Suite 20, Lexington, MA 02421

Websites: www.ildlex.org, www.researchild.org, www.smarts-ef.org